Blog Service.

The Servei d'Informàtica provides the University Community with a Blog service, based on Wordpress, which allows any user of the UV to have a personal space where they can publish their articles and content without the need to have prior knowledge in the creation of websites.

Due to the fact that we are staff of the Universitat, we will have the possibility of having our own blog using any of the predetermined templates. Our blog is public by default and can be visited through a URL on the Internet.

https://usuario.blogs.uv.es being “user” our username in the Universitat de València.

Each blog is managed and maintained by the user and he / she commits that the contents never have a commercial nature because it is a personal blog. It allows the insertion of entries, pages, images, links and all kinds of multimedia elements.

As we indicated, the appearance of the blog is chosen by the user from a catalog of templates that provides the Servei d'Informàtica as predetermined and that have been previously validated. The user selects the preferred template for his blog and is primarily responsible for the publication of the contents (and to a lesser extent the design). There are also available a series of Plugins and Widgets that can provide the blog with added value.
