License

A license is the right to install certain software on a specific computer. The licenses acquired through this service can be installed:

In general, on computers owned by the Universitat de València. In some cases, in a computer for personal use (case of student licenses), while maintaining the link with the University of Valencia.

- The reduced prices paid for the licenses are the result of special agreements with software manufacturers, and involve more restrictions on use than if they had been purchased in a store.
- The limitations on the use of licenses vary depending on the software manufacturer and the negotiated agreement.

It is convenient to consult the conditions of use of the licenses for each specific product.
